Organise a Debate

Destruction of Habitats on Earth

RESEARCH

Research Destruction of Habitats on Earth from the view point of:

a) multi-million pound property development

b) pollution of ocean environments.

ORGANISE A DEBATE with two opposing debating questions:

For

A. Get one person to try to persuade others that the importance of building hotels or other business properties to improve local employment is always a good thing, no matter what harm is done to natural environments

Against

B. Another person tries to persuade others that it is more important to guard against pollution of creature's natural homes and environments.

You might want to share this idea with your class at school so you could have an audience to ask questions after the presentations and then have a vote from the audience to support one of the arguments. Presenters of the 'arguments' could get a score (prize) for the quality/detail of explanation to convince their audience.
